

Application Overview for Bethesda Green's Innovation Center

Through this Innovation Center application process, we will ask for information about your business and your founding team. By submitting this information, you are giving it to Bethesda Green to use internally at its discretion. The information collected in this application is considered confidential and will not be shared beyond the Bethesda Green team, our trusted network of mentors and advisors, and the board of directors without your permission.

We ask that you respond carefully to each question so that the information you provide in the application is accurate. We do not see it as a poor reflection on an early-stage venture if its current numbers – especially its financials – are lower than one might hope or expect. In fact, we feel this is why entrepreneurial programs like ours exist: to help promising entrepreneurs reach their full potential.
